THE OUTRAGE IS REPEATED

TRAND AVENUE AGAIN FENCED IN FOR PRIVATE GAIN.

Life and Limb Endangered by the Crowds Which Gather Before the Barriers - Force

Is Used.

The outrage of private parties for mercenary motives fencing in a main street for an entire block, and, under the protection of the police, barring the public from its rights that John Sullivan et al might reap a harvest of quarters, was repeated last night on Grand avenue, to the disgrace of the city and the shame of hospitality. For over two hours the avenue was barricaded near Ninth and again near Tenth by an eight foot fence, guarded by a heavy detail of police, under Chief John Hayes.

"Damn you." citizens and visitors were told by the police guardians, "if you haven't got a quarter to get in, get out of the way and off the street."

Men and women were pushed and crowd ed back, jostled and jammed. The outrage met the condemnation of citizens and visitors alike, as it did on Tuesday night. It tors alike, as it did on Tuesday night. It was known that the so-called "official stands" were a private enterprise, the same as any other stands which have been erected in all parts of the business section for Carnival week. It was known too that an effort had been made to bunce and deceive the public by unscrupilous parties interested in the stands by having it appear that they were an investment of the Karnival Krewe, whereas the Karnival Krewe had absolutely nothing to do with the investment. And that the police department under Chief Hayes should lend its aid to any such outrageous proceeding as denying to cliness their own streets that the pockets of individuals might be lined aroused public wrath.

citzens their own streets that the pockets of individuals might be lined aroused public wrath.

The police fought the people back at the north end of the barricade until 8:38 last night. Citizens were cursed, punched and prodded. The street outside the fence was packed with people. Then there came a determined rush, a section of the fence cracked and was about to give way. Captain Branham, seeing the police were beaten, let the gates fly open, and, with a wild whoop, the crowd surged through past the frantically brandished clubs of the police outside of the barrier, who thought it had been forced.

There was more danger to life and limb, more danger of rioting and disorder, in the crowds held back by the barriers last night than in all the unrestrained crowds that ever assembled in Kansas City in past years. The chief of police seems responsible for the outrage, acting in cahoots with private parties interested in the stands.

At the meeting of the council last night Councilman Wolf arose in the lower house and denounced the action of the private parties who are running the so-called "of-ficial" grand standin blockading Grand avenue from a point about 100 feet south of Ninth street to Tenth street.

"I want to call the attention of the members of the house to a matter that is not in the budget for this evening." he said, "but which is deserving of serious attention. A short time ago we granted to some persons who appeared before us the privilege of erecting an arch and stands upon Grand avenue between Ninth and Tenth streets, under the impression that we were making these grants to the Karnival Krewe, the Priests of Pallas and the Flower parade committees. It turns out now that we were deceived, and that private parties are receiving the benefits of these privileges.

"Last night these private parties put fences across the street at the arch and that we were deceived, and that private parties are receiving the benefits of these privileges.

"Lest night these private parties put fences across the street at the arch and at Tenth street. These fences had gates in them and at these gates they had men stationed who refused to let anyone pass or use the street who would not buy a ticket to the grand stand. They even refused in my presence to let people pass who live in the houses on both sides of the street, unless they each paid a quarter. This was an outrage upon the people of Kansas City, who own the streets and have the right to use them. The same thing was done again to-night, and now there are fences across the street and the people are prevented by these private parties from using it.

"I suppose it is too late to do anything now, but it will teach us a lesson to be more careful how we grant privileges that will interfere with the rights of the people. The next time these parties come before us asking for favors we will know how to treat them."

The people of the "official" stands had a weary time of it again vesterday. It was wary time of it again yesterday. It was b o'clock before the Flower parade reached the stands, and it was a very tired crowd which greeted it. Arkansas Anthracite and Semi-An-

Barber Asphalt Paving Company bid $2.12 per square yard upon both streets. These contracts were held over from the last letting.

The city engineer and the public improvements committee opened bids for paving Broadway from Fourteenth to Sixteenth street, and Thirteenth street from Michigan to Euclid avenue, with the same material, but the contracts were not let. The Parker-Washington company bid $1.80 per square yard and the Barber company $2.12. Another injunction from Judge Henry restraining the city engineer from letting the contract to the latter company was served upon that official. The next letting will be on October 12.

"I don't see why they should bring me here." said Wade. "There was absolutely no danger of a lynching bee in Liberty. If I was out of jail and free to go where I pleased I would go right home and go to bed as usual to-night. The excitement in Liberty and Clay county as regards my case has died out. The people are now taking a sensible view of it."

MEDICS BEATEN BY KANSAS

THE JAYHAWKERS WIN FOOTBALL GAME, 22 TO 8.

Medics Were Strong in Defensive Play, but Lacking in Offensive Work-Lack of Team Work Was Also Apparent.

The University Medical college football eleven was defeated on the Exposition gridiron yesterday afternoon by the Kansas university team by a score of 22 to 8. The game was long drawn out and tedious, largely from the fact that an insufficient number of police had been provided to keep the crowd in bounds and men and boys crowded down to the side lines and finally onto the gridiron, the last goal that Kansas made being directly attributable to the people on the field. Swearingen had punted forty yards down the field and Speaks catching the ball darted through the line of spectators and racing down the field with the screen of men and boys between him and the Medics carried the ball eighty yards for a touchdown. Several attempts of the Medics to break through the line of spectators failed, because even after they had forced an opening they were so far behind the flying Speaks that it was next to an impossibility to overtake him. The officials of the game were Lieutenant Smith, referee; W. H. H. Piatt, umpire, and Wyile G. Woodruff and Mr. Wyatt, linesmen. A long wrangle took place over the length of the halves, but a compromise, was effected by deciding upon a thirty minute first and a twenty minute second. Kansas scored in the first half after three and a half minutes' play, when Speaks, on a criss-cross play, carried the ball fifty-five yards across the field for goal. Mosse kicked goal.

The ball was carried back and forth on the field during the rest of the half, each side having possession of it several times, losing it on fumbles and downs. It was on the Medics' thirty yard line in possession of Kansas when time was called.

The Medics had been weak in the first half in offensive play, but in the second half they started out with a tremendous rush and hammered the Kansas line for repeated gains. They lost the ball in the center of the field on a mixup of signals and Kansas carried it across the line largely on tandem plays with the guards thrown back. Mosse made a second touchdown, but falled to kick goal. The Medics had not lost heart and went to work after the second kickoff. In four minutes' play on a criss-cross play Heller made a splendior fun of forty-live yards for a touchdown. Lewis missed an easy chance to kick goal. The Medics kept hammering the Kansas line, improving materially in their offensive plays and in five minutes' playing again carried the ball across the line, but Lewis failed in an attempt at goal. Just at the moment when the Medics' hopes were beating highest the Kansans rallied and piled up three more touchdown, and two goals, leaving the score 22 to 8, with the ball in the cente field with the screen of men and boys be tween him and the Medics carried the ball

* MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

As announced in The Journal several weeks ago, the Auditorium is to be run this season as a popular price house, the attractions to be furnished by a local stock company, assisted by vaudeville features that will change weekly. No authoritative announcements have been made as to the personnel and character of the stock company and the vaudeville artists, but the mystery was cleared up yesterday by the arrival of O. D. Woodward, manager of the Woodward Theater Company. Mr. Woodward has for several seasons managed and headed a repertory company that has played a number of towns in the West. Lately he has been doing business with Messrs. Paxton & Burgess, lessees of the Auditorium. His company has met with success at the Creighton in Omaha for the past few weeks, and its engagement there has been prolonged. This is the organization that will open the season at the Auditorium Monday evening, October 18. Mr. Woodward was seen yesterday.

"Yes," he said, "we are ging to make a departure at this theater. We have a company that gives good performances, but we do not have to pay our actors and actresses for their reputations. We believe in changing our well known people week by week, and our high priced talent will therefore offer continuous variety."

"Who are some of your stock people?" was asked. Lately he has been doing business with was asked.

Mr. Woodward picked up a card with a sort of family group, intended for window advertising. "This is our company," he said. On the card, under their respective pictures, were found the names of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Woodward, James F. Fuller, Florence Montgomery, Horace Noble, C. E. Emery, Cora Ernest, F. H. Livingstone, Will Davis, Arthur Smith, Dora Carleton, Frank Woodward and Willard Schroth. It was apparent that Mr. Woodward was living up to his idea of stock company management. His people were evidently engaged for their ability, and not for their reputation.

living up to his idea of stock company management. His people were evidently engaged for their ability, and not for their reputation.

"All we claim for our stock company is that we give fairly good performances of well selected plays," he said. "We count on our special weekly features to attract much attention, however. We have a long list of vandeville stars, among them Clara Morris, Kate Claxton, Marie Tavary, Alice Shaw, Kate Davis, Lillian Burkhardt, 'ass. George S. Knight, Isabelle Urquhart, Lew Dockstader. Henry Lee, John Kernell, Wood and Shephard, Bobbie Gaylor, George Monroe, Charles Pickson, George Thatcher and Ed Marble, Johnstone Bennett and S. Miller Kent, Marian Manola and Jack Mason, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Boniface and Fannie McIntyre."

"What will be your first bill?"

"The stock company will play "The Lost Paradise' and for special features will have Mme. Tavary, the renowned operatic soprano, and Professor Morris' trained ponies. Yes, I know that you smile at the association of grand opera and trained animals, but you have no idea how very clever these ponies are.

"Among the bills that we shall present later will be "Shenandoah." The Charity Ball," The Wife, "Held by the Enemy," The Silver King, 'Alabama, 'The Banker's Daughter, 'All the Comforts of Home,' Forgiven,' The Private Secretary' and 'Wife for Wife."

"We shall open our weekly engagements on Monday nights, play Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday matinees and close Sunday nights. The performances will not be continuous, as we do not believe the continuous idea would be popular at this theater.

"I presume there is some sentiment in this city against putting the Auditorium to the use of vaudeville and the popular price system, but we believe we can overcome any prejudice that may exist against the departure. We have selected plays and vaudeville artists whom we believe will appeal to the better classes, and as our prices will be very low-from 10 to 50 cents, with many seats at 10 cents—we think that we shall get a large following.

Mr. C

Mr. Clay Clement's Baron Hohenstauffen, as played by him in his own play. "The New Dominion." has been accorded a place among the high art creations of the stage. Mr. Clement will come to the Coates next week fully equipped with a scenic production and an excellent company to give "The New Dominion" such a presentation as it has never had in past seasons. Mr. Clement's excellent company includes Frank E. Alken, Miss Eleanor Carey, Miss Karra Kenwyn. Carleton Macey, Jeffries D. Williams, Thomas F. O'Malley, William F. Wolcott, Miss Nell McEwan. Mrs. Charles C. Craig. Miss Gertrude O'Malley, William B. McGillicuddy. During the engagement Mr. Clement's new play, "A Southern Gentleman," will be given.

The Hanlon's will visit this city next week at the Grand Opera house with their 1897 edition of "Superba," new and up to date in every particular and full of new ballets, specialties, tricks and illusions and a new set of scenery. This entertainment combines much in the way of good, wholescme amusement.

The Ninth Street will offer three of Lin-coln J. Carter's melodramas next week. They will be "The Fast Mail." "The Tor-nado" and "The Defaulter." all staged with special scenery and comprising the biggest melodramatic repertory ever offered in a popular price house in this city.
